ity. is, he carries a lot of figurative minity.

That is, he carries a lot of figurative weight.

Heyle, his assistant, weighs more in folid measure, but figurative weight and indinence is what goes.

And Tommy knows it.

Tierefore, when he yots letters from perple all over the State, asking him to use his influence in the election of a judge by the Legislature he doesn't swell up, like some people might, but gots Rogers to reply in a most suave manner.

The only thing about it is that these letters and requests interfere with Tommy's regular duties of carrying mail to the postoffice and taking notes to Manager Rex for extra tickets and arguments with the head office boy in Mr. Chewning's office and the other nead office boy in the additional rooms.

Some day the Governor is going to call on Tommy to help him in his fight for ferratorial honors, and then Tommy will sive to resign as head office boy and be a page in Washington.

We feel glad of Tommy's importance, and we hope he will never grow too dignified to spin tops and play marbles.

Ask Rogers about it.

Ask Rogers about it.

The question that arose between Timbeliske and Williams was as to whether it was a barrel or a box.

Somebody upset it, full of ashes, on the curistone, and when Timberlake and Williams reached the scone, they figured but that it was either a box or a barrel, a.o. I the question came up for debate, and they called in Taylor to decide.

But his decision was based. Prejudice cropped out all through his opinion, and all his display of diplomacy went for naught.

He said it was a keg.

Then the whole party went to Wiltiama's bowling alleys to settle it, but it has not yet been decided as to whether or not it was a box or a barrel.

The book agents are bee, headed by Mr. Hough, and the merry war is on. Simil we use so-and-o's books in the public solvols, or shall we not?

That is the question.

We'd like to get in the game and be an unbitration committee, and we'd decide that the best books to be used in the Reicols would be a bound volume of the Man About Town sketches.

OF HUMAN INTEREST; STORIES OF TO-DAY

The Judge's Question.

The Judge's Question.

Judge Lyman S. Burr, of Derby, Conn., who resigned from the beach tast month on account of dealness, displayed in his addiess of resignation a vigor of speech that has always marked him, says an exchange.

Judge Burr, it will be recalled, said that Providence had been unjust in inflicting him with dealness, This utterfance surprised the general public, but it did not surprise the friends of the unforturate jurist.

A lawyer of New Haven told the other day how he once introduced to Judge Burr a novelist who is now famous. The novelist was young and obscure at the time, but what he lacked in years and fame he more than made up for in self-orndence. He telleved in himself; he had no doubt of his powers; he delighted in calling attention to the brilliance of his mind.

Judge Burr observed the young man

Judge Burr observed the young man closely and sternly. Finally he said: "So you expect to be famous some day, en?"

"So you wanted day," said the young man, "I same day," said the world at my feet." "What have you been doing all this time," said the judge, "waiking on your

MUCH SWEETNESS COMES OVER WATER

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—American manufacturers insist that perfumes made in this country are fifty per cent, tetter than the imported articles, yet the demand for foreign perfumers is steadily increasing. At the convention of the manufacturing perfumers of the United States, held bere to-day, the subject was discussed at length, but it spears that relief can come only from the long and tedious process of educating the public to buy domestic goods. The tariff is said to be at top notch, so no more help can come from that direction. It was stated in the report of the Committee on limports that the value of last year's imports, with futles and fair profits for the importers, was not less than $1,500,000.

A large increase over the previous year.

"The mayor is right," said the Rev. Dr. John Lloyd Lee, of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in West Twenty-third Street. "The word 'obey' is entirely a matter of indiference. No importance can be attached to it any longer. It is an old form and has no legal significance. I always omif it and put it in the service only when I am requested to do so."

Trinity parish, Ninety-second Street and Columbus Avenue. "I never omit it and I decline positively to do so. Occasionally we are raquested to omit it, but we decline, because we put a rational interpretation on the phrase. There is really no reasonable objection to it, and that is why it is retained in the service. I think it could be considered rather as an innovation on the part of the mayor."
